The Teamsters Local 89 Organizing Department is currently engaged in an effort to bring more brothers and sisters into our union. An organizing drive is underway at the Hollander Sleep Products facility in Mumfordsville, Kentucky. This Hollander facility is a factory that produces mattress pads used to construct beds which are available at many department and wholesale stores, such as Walmart and Costco. The facility employs approximately 220 workers. Local 89 organizers were approached by...

In today's local papers — thank you Brian, Martha, Tish, and all public employees of the Inland Empire for helping our communities thrive with your work. Our union of working people will transform the Inland Empire for the better — Teamsters1932.org

THANK YOU PUBLIC EMPLOYEES!

Meet Brian – his work at the City of Pomona Water Department ensures that residents can expect high quality and clean water for all to enjoy.

Meet Martha – her work at the San Bernardino County Transitional Assistance Department connects people with the vital resources and programs one needs when times are tough.

Meet Tish – her work at San Bernardino County Children & Family Services helps strengthen families and protects the region's most vulnerable children.

Brian, Martha, and Tish are just some of the dedicated public employees in our union of over 14,500 working people, TEAMSTERS LOCAL 1932. We are fighting to produce positive change for the public organizations we work in, and the communities we thrive in.

Join us as we continue to TRANSFORM the I.E.
For more information:

Make DHL Deliver Please sign onto the support letter for striking DHLNH workers here: <https://bit.ly/2kFcwG6> It's Time To Deliver Fairness to DHLNH Workers! DHL makes billions in profits. But the workers who deliver DHL packages in Rhode Island get paid as little $11.25 an hour and can't afford their healthcare. Please stand with DHLNH workers who are on strike for living wages, affordable healthcare and a better future. DHL and DHLNH owe more to the communities that you serve—and you...

MAKE DELIVER!

Customers pay top dollar to DHLNH. But the company pays poverty wages and denies affordable healthcare to its workforce.

That's why DHLNH workers are on strike in Rhode Island.

We are proud to serve our customers. But we need to be able take care of our families, too.

For a year, we have asked the company to be fair to employees. But management refuses to provide fair wages, a secure retirement, or affordable healthcare.

The company's healthcare plan costs more than many employees make in a year! We work full-time, but have to pay for Obamacare to get healthcare.

DHLNH customers and workers deserve better.

¹DHLNH is a wholly owned subsidiary of North East Freightways.

Unions Keep Inequality in Check

Fewer workers are unionized today.

That's a problem because:

1 Unions win higher wages for their workers.

The Nation.

2 People of color benefit most.

In 1962, the income boost from union membership was nearly 3

So, more unions mean less inequality.

If union membership had stayed at 1950s levels, the growth in income share of the top 10% would have been reduced

Interesting read, this could possibly open the flood gates to other public entities being merged, or eliminated. "Regionalism" amongst dispatch services in local communities has already been implemented. Since Governor Kasich has taken away the local government fund to reinforce Ohio's rainy day fund, local communities have been struggling to fix budget gaps, possibly encouraging these cost saving moves.

Shared services CAN happen. This town proved it by getting rid of its police

Wenonah's police department, established in the 1950s, ceased to exist on June 1.
