Does YOUR district have air conditioned classrooms? How HOT our classrooms are has been a topic of much debate in various districts through some unseasonably hot days this spring - and as we move into even hotter days of Summer School. It's also something that came up throughout the Blue Ribbon Commission on School Funding hearings - where the gaps between "have" and "have not" districts was illustrated around the state. And while some people have taken the moment to challenge district...
“The answer is always, ‘I didn’t know who to invite,’ or, ‘I didn’t know any women,’ or, ‘I invited one or two but they weren’t available, so here we are with six men talking on the panel,” said one of the creators of a new database of female historians. “When one person says no, you have to ask another.”

Female Historians Try to End the I-Didn’t-Know-Any-Women Excuse for Men-Only Panels

IT'S BECAUSE...

our teachers matter.
our support staff matter.
every child deserves to be noticed.
our students deserve the best education.
it's not just a 40-hour work week.
decades old technology just isn't cutting it.
we need safe schools now.
we deserve fair pay for our work.
we believe in our students' bright futures.
our schools should be fully funded.
our school buildings are falling apart.
extra-curriculars are important.
