Thank you, Andrew Garfield! And let's bake a cake for anyone who wants one!
Andrew Garfield Dedicates 'Angels' Tony to LGBT Community
Garfield referenced the Masterpiece Cakeshop ruling, and Nathan Lane and the play took home awards too.

"It is a spirit that says no to oppression. It is a spirit that says no to bigotry, no to shame, no to exclusion. It is a spirit that says we are all made perfectly. And we all belong. So, I dedicate this award to the countless LGBTQ people who have fought and died to protect that spirit, to protect that message: For the right to live and love as we are created to."

Unlike Mr. Joecks, we at Gender Justice Nevada listen to young persons and families every week in the groups we share. What we have learned to begin with is that they can tell us who they are. (And isn’t that one of the foundations of our country, the freedom to be who we are?!) As we listen further, we don’t hear them saying they want to be “the most royal, exalted, praised and admired one.” That may be Mr. Joecks’ particular fetish, and the young persons we listen to listen to talk about...
